March 10, 2011 - The Creative Arts Center in Bonham has the dubious honor of being host to an art sale and exhibit of works created by Adolf A. Dehn, one of the most notable lithographers of the 20th Century. The Center will hold two receptions, Friday, March 18 from 6 to 8 p.m. and Saturday, March 19 from 2 to 4 p.m. and will feature lithographs, caseins and watercolors, not ever seen before in exhibit, for sale.

Dehn died in 1968 after teaching other artists lithography techniques. In his later years he was widely recognized and financially successful and traveled extensively. The wide range of subject matter found in his paintings, prints and drawings reflects his travels.

Mark your calendar and plan to visit the Creative Arts Center in Bonham to view this lifetime exhibit of artworks for sale - never before seen in Texas.

For more information, directions and a list of original works of art that will be on display, please contact Barbara Reeves, Executive Director, Creative Arts Center, 200 W. 5th St. Bonham, Texas 75418.
