She was taken into custody on class A misdemeanor charges of Assault Family Violence.

The officer further advised that if he was called back out that night, they would be taken to jail.

The complainant advised that the dog approached his home while the complainant's smaller dog was outside, and began to attack the smaller dog. The officer found the dog at a home down the street, but was unable to make contact with anybody at the home. The officer advised the suspect of those requests, and further advised that the man may be responsible for the window repair.
